

As a collision repair professional, it is essential that you have the skills and knowledge which reflect the latest innovations in the collision repair industry.

I-CAR provides training which is relevant to your role. As you train, you are recognised for your achievements.

When accredited as an I-CAR Platinum Individual, you will achieve recognition for your commitment to ongoing training.

I-CAR® PLATINUM INDIVIDUAL™

Being recognised as an I-CAR® Platinum Individual™ in your role means that you have achieved one of the highest training levels recognised in the Collision Repair Industry.

Your Role as a Professional

The Collision Repair Industry believes that training must be relevant to your role. With that in mind, I-CAR Australia has developed programs and pathways for role-specific training.

- 10 recognition points are required from the following programs in order to achieve Platinum Individual designation:
- Live training
- Virtual training
- Online training
- Testing and certification

Once you have achieved 10 recognition points, accreditation will be granted. There is no time limit, but we recommend that you complete 10 points over a maximum of two years.

Points can also be allocated after the successful completion of an approved course delivered by any of our Industry Training Alliance Partners. The number of points earned are awarded by the training partner and are added to your I-CAR points total.

Maintaining Your Designation

Once you achieve the I-CAR Platinum Individual designation, you maintain your accreditation by successfully completing annual training in subject areas that are relevant to your role. A minimum of 2 recognition points per year is required to maintain your designation.

Display Your Accreditation with Pride

All Platinum Individuals receive a prestigious certificate together with embroidered sleeve patches.
